- Electronic document flow shall have a meaning of an electronic document management system, where all electronic documents are created, transmitted and stored with the help of information and communication technologies on computers united in a network structure.
- Electronic document (hereinafter also referred to as ED) shall have a meaning of documented information provided in electronic form, i.e. in the form that is suitable for comprehension by people with the help of electronic computing machines, as well as for transmitting via information and telecommunication networks or processing in information systems.
- CA - Certification authority - shall have a meaning of a legal entity, an individual entrepreneur or a public body or a local government body performing functions on generation and issuance of electronic signature verification key certificates and other functions provided for by Federal Law dated 06.04.2011 No. 63-ФЗ On Electronic Signature.
- ES - Electronic Signature - shall have a meaning of information in electronic form which is attached to the other information in electronic form (to the information being signed) or in other way related to such information that is used to identify the person signing the information (electronic document). There are simple and enhanced electronic signatures.
- Enhanced non-qualified electronic signature (hereinafter - NQES) is an enhanced electronic signature type, which: is obtained as a result of a cryptographic transformation of data using an electronic signature key; allows to identify the person signing the ED; allows to detect the fact of making changes into the ED after signature hereof; is created with the help of ES means.
- Enhanced qualified electronic signature (hereinafter also referred to as QES) shall have a meaning of an electronic signature, which has all features of a non-qualified electronic signature and the following additional features:
  - electronic signature verification key is specified in the qualified certificate;
  - the electronic signature means having confirmation of compliance with requirements of Federal Law dated 06.04.2011 No. 63-ФЗ On Electronic Signature shall be used for generation and verification of the electronic signature.
- CIPF shall have a meaning of cryptographic information protection facilities
- Signed electronic document (hereinafter -SED) shall have a meaning of an electronic document with an attached electronic signature, which was generated subject to the ED and an electronic signature key.
• Electronic signature verification key certificate (henceforth - Certificate) shall have a meaning of an electronic document or a paper document issued by the certification authority or a trusted person of the certification authority and confirming the ownership of the electronic signature verification key by the owner of the electronic signature verification key certificate. It is also called a public key certificate. The certificate contains a unique number, a start date and end date of the validity period, information on the owner, used cryptographic algorithms, the restrictions on the use, the ES unique verification key, the name of the CA issuing the certificate and other information. The certificate has its own ES created by a certificate authority.

• The owner of the electronic signature verification key certificate (henceforth - Certificate owner) is the person, to whom the electronic signature verification key certificate is issued. Information on the owner must be contained in the certificate.

• Electronic signature key shall have a meaning of a unique sequence of characters designed for generation of the ES. It is also called a privacy key.

• Electronic signature verification key shall have a meaning of a unique sequence of characters, which is uniquely associated with an electronic signature key and is designed for the ES verification (henceforth - ES verification). It is also called a public key. The value of the electronic signature verification key can be found in the certificate.

• Electronic signature means (henceforth - ES means) shall have a meaning of means of encryption (cryptographics) used to implement at least one of the following functions: ES generation, ES verification, ES key creation and ES verification key creation.

• Certification authority means shall have a meaning of software and (or) hardware used to implement functions of the certification authority.

• CA root certificate shall have a meaning of a certificate issued by the certification authority to itself and which is self-signed. All other certificates issued by this CA shall be signed with the ES key of this root certificate. In the concept of the public key infrastructure: in case there is trust to the CA root certificate, then automatically there is trust to all certificates issued by this CA and signed by the ES key of this root certificate. Typically, the CA has only one root certificate.

• CA intermediate certificate shall have a meaning of a certificate which ES key was used to sign another certificate, and the certificate itself was signed with the ES key of the CA root certificate or another intermediate certificate of this CA. Intermediate certificates allow you to build a wide hierarchical structure of certificates of the CA.

• Self-signed certificate shall have a meaning of a certificate, which is signed with the ES key corresponding to the ES verification key from this certificate. The certificate issuer fields contain the same data as the certificate owner fields.

• ES generation shall have a meaning of a result of work of the ES means in the course of ES creation, which produces a sequence of data bits of the fixed length after cryptographic transformation of the electronic document to the hash and hash encryption by the electronic signature key. Length of the name of the hashing and encryption algorithms is specified in the certificate.

• Confirmation of the authenticity of the ES in the SED shall have a meaning of a positive result of the work of the ES means in the course of ES verification. The result of work is considered positive, in case the value, which is equal to the hash of the electronic document received using the corresponding cryptographic algorithm set in the certificate, is received after de-encryption of the ES by means of the ES verification key using the cryptographic algorithm set in the certificate.

• Hash shall have a meaning of a result of the hashing function, which converts the input data array of random length into the output bit string of the fixed length.

• Electronic document flow participants shall have a meaning of persons involved in the exchange of information in electronic form within the framework of this Agreement.

• System shall have a meaning of a set of software and hardware means, which enables the electronic document flow between the Operator and the Counterparty under this Agreement. The System includes ES means and provides for the ED preparation, the generation of ES, the receipt, transmission, and processing of SED using the computer facilities of each of the Parties. Data transfer in the System is implemented via the Internet.

• Certificate revocation list (hereinafter - CRL) shall have a meaning of a list containing the serial numbers of certificates, which have been revoked by the issuing CA and which are no longer trusted. Certificates are added to the CRL after notification of compromise of the ES key.

• Expert Commission shall have a meaning of a Commission created by the Parties to resolve disputes arising from the exchange of SED.
